Mrs. Dash—"My pet, I wish you would not go with those girls." Miss Dash—"Why not, mamma? They are real nice." Mrs. Dash—"I hear their father has been arrested for stealing pennies from a money drawer."

Miss Dash—"It's a mean, miserable clanster. He had some legal papers served on him, and has been sleeping in a cell because it is cooler there." Mrs. Dash—"And he didn't steal any pennies?"

Miss Dash—"No, indeed, he would not descent to such a thing. He merely diverted five hundred thousand dollars, that's all."

Mrs. Dash—"Oh, in that case it is all right. I feared he was a vulgar thief." First Omaha Youth: "Say, Jinks, you promised me you would talk about me in such a way to that Miss De East that she would be delighted to know me."

Second Omaha Youth: "Yes, and I kept my promise."
"You did! She would scarcely look at me when I called last evening, and bowed to be excused—said she had a headache, and wished she was back home in Philadelphia."

"In Philadelphia! Great Caesar! I thought she was from Boston and I told her you were a prize-fighter!"

An Irishwoman, who was undergoing a civil service examination for an appointment as a cook, was endeavoring to tell the lady, who was questioning her, her manner of dressing potatoes, a la mush.

"First I smashes 'em, mum, and then I piles 'em into a dish, mum, an' pokes a little hole in the top, an' puts a chunk av butter in it, an' lets it evaporate over
'em, mum."

"As for coffee, mum, I have no equal, mum. The great thing in makin' it is to keep in the ammonia, mum."

She meant aroma.

MADAME rings furiously for her valet de chambre.
"Antoine," she cries, "this letter has been opened!"

"Madame—"
"I know it is my husband who has done it. Confess, or I will discharge you at once!"

"It was not monsieur. I confess, madame, that it was myself."
"Oh, well," more gently, "that makes a difference. You may go."

And will you let me go away without an answer, dear?" he said, gently, though his heart was throbbing double throbs.

"All so strange and unexpected, George," the words came soft and low.
"If sometimes in my dreams the thought has come that you might some day call me—Ah, dear, you must read your answer in my eyes."

And the answer read, "I'll not let you get away."

GENTLEMAN (to a popular photographer)—Do you take photographs by the instantaneous process?

Photographer—O, yes, sir; or any process.

Gentleman—Well, I want about half a dozen cabinets of myself, and, as I am in some-thing of a hurry, you may use the instantaneous process.

Photographer—Very well, sir. Just take a seat in the parlor. Your turn will come in about three hours.

YOUNG MAN (to sexton at church door): Isn't the sermon nearly done?
Sexton: "About an hour yet. He is only on his 'Lasty.'"

Young man: "Will it take him an hour to get through his 'Lasty'?" Sexton: "No; but there is the 'One word more and I am done,' and the 'Finally,' and the 'In conclusion,' to come yet. Don't get impatient, young man."

"Morning, don't the angels wear any clothes?" asked a little girl of her mother.

"No, my daughter."
"None at all, mother?"
"None at all."
There was a pause, and the little cherub asked:

"Where do the angels put their pocket handkerchiefs?"

"A HUSBY, one ever proposed to you before?" he asked tenderly, after the important question had been put and satisfactorily answered.

"George Simpson came very near it last night," she replied, shyly. "He was just on the point of asking me to be his wife when mamma came into the parlor.
But I am very glad she did," went on the girl earnestly. "I don't think I would have been happy with George."

"I think Charlie," said Mrs. Smallface to her faithful, "that I shall put you into long trousers very soon."
"But not till after Christmas, ma."
"Why not?"
"Oh, because you know, ma, I shall have to get into short stockings, and they don't hold much."

Very clear head Charlie has.
"Look here, waiter, quick," called out a gentleman in a restaurant.
"What is it, sir?"
"Here is a dead fly in my soup."
"So I see. It seems to be quite dead."
"Well, by thunder, I want you to understand that I consider this an outrage."

"I am sorry, sir, but if you are opposed to eating dead animals, you should patronize one of the vegetarian restaurants."

"Yes, George, I will marry, but you will have to elope with me."
"What, Clarissa? Do your parents object to me?"
"No; they think you are just splendid."

"Then why must we elope?"
"Why, George, don't you know that if I elope the papers will speak of me as the beautiful daughter of wealthy parents?"

A MISTAKE—"They left a letter out of the name of this watch," said Huffcutt, as he began on the second hour of winding his new nickel-plated three-dollar stem-winder.

"That's so?"
"Fact. It's a stem-winder. The manufacturer couldn't have intended that hand-labor should be employed on a job like this."

Too POPULAR—"I hear that Mr. and Mrs. — have separated," said Miss Gosp to a friend.

"Yes, it's a great pity."
"I think she's very foolish. I'm sure I don't know a single woman who knows him who does not think he's a most charming man."

"Yes, dear. That's why they have separated."

Teacher: What is America called in song?
Boy: Pa says it's the land of the beer-ave and the home of the free (hunches).

Teacher (sternly): Next!

THE CHICAGO DAILY NEWS

Is a complete newspaper in all that constitutes the best type of American journalism. It is a member of the Associated Press, and is the only 2-cent morning paper in Chicago that possesses this first essential to a complete news service. In addition it has its own private leased wires connecting its office with Washington and New York. It prints ALL THE NEWS.

THE CHICAGO DAILY NEWS

Is an independent paper. It recognizes the utility of political parties as means for the accomplishment of proper ends, but it declines to regard any mere party as a fit subject for un-questioning adoration. It is unbiased in its presentation of political news.

THE CHICAGO DAILY NEWS

Is a "short-and-to-the-point" paper.
It leaves to the "blanket-sheets" the monopoly of tiresome and worthless amplification. It says all that is to be said in the shortest possible manner. It is a paper for busy people.
